European BIBFRAME Workshop 2018

- The aim of the European BIBFRAME Workshop 2018 is to be a forum for sharing knowledge about practice of, production with and planning of BIBFRAME implementation.
- We want to bring together people working with the transition from MARC to Linked Data using the BIBFRAME model and related tools.
- This workshop is not a theoretical Linked Data / Semantic Web event; we are strongly focused on practical implementation of BIBFRAME.
- The workshop participants have to meet the expectations: working with production, practice and/or planning implementation.

Wrap-up Workshop 2017

- The library community needs one international standard for interchange of bibliographic metadata based on modern technology to supersede MARC.
- BIBFRAME has the potential to become more global than MARC21.
- BIBFRAME as the only Linked Data format for libraries with the potential to become the global solution
- The need is an International Community for global knowledge sharing – and European events and a common documentation platform:
proposal: bibframe.org
- Poor vendor support. Need pressure on vendors
